

Recognition of our sustainable consumption and production project: Report 3

Dr. Christopher Warren collected the Banksia Foundations award for 2018 on behalf of the 'My Green Butler' project.

Summary

2018 has been a very successful year for our project which focuses on responsible consumption and production through smart technologies and training of hospitality staff. The Banksia Foundations' award is the longest running sustainable award in the world and we were fortunate to be selected as winners of the small business category for 2018. Our case study is now listed on the UNGC in Australia and we share our case study through the Banksia Foundation.

We also were invited to join the City of Sydney's Sustainable Destination Partnership and attended the official launch where Dr Christopher Warren signed a pledge to assist Sydney's tourism sector reduce carbon emissions by 70% by 2030.

Christopher signs a pledge for the 'My Green Butler' project with Lord Mayor Clover Moore, to help tourism firms cut emissions by 70% by 2030.

The City of Sydney Sustainable Destination Partnership includes half of the hotels room listed in the city.

Dr Christopher Warren
christopher@icrtourism.com.au